Prom Chancellor Kent's Eulogy on the author.

"The American Dictionary of the English Language, is a work of profound in restigation, and does infinite honor to the philological learning and general literature of this country. Happy the man who can thus honorably identify his name with the existence of our vernacular tongue. There is no other way in which mortal man could more effectually secure immortality benest the skies. Obelisks, arches, and triumphal monuments seem to be as transient as the bubble of military reputation. No work of art can withstand the incessant strokes of time. The unrivalled Parthenon, glowing in polished marble, and which, for more than two thousand years continued from the summit of the citadel of Athens to cast its broad splendors across the plains below, and along the coasts and headlands of Attica, is now crumbling to ruins, after being despoiled of its most exquisite materials by savage war and heartless man.—

Even the Pyramids of Egypt, whose origin is bidden, in the deepest recesses of antiquity, and which have always stood in awe-inspiring solitude and grandeur, are now amnoyed by the depredations of curiosity, and greatly corroded by the action of the elements, and gradually sinking under the encroaching sands of the desert. This dictionary and the language and gradually sinking under the encroaching sands of the desert. This dictionary; and the language which it embodies will also perish; but it will not be with the gorgoous palaces. It will go with the solemn temptes and the great globe itself."

The Publishers of the foregoing work respectfully amounce that they have made arrangements with Mr. F. Taylor, Bookseller, of Washington city, to furnish the American Dictionary, in two large volumes, at the very reduced price of twelve dollars. It is to be understood that for this price the best paper and type, and the best binding, will be supplied—the best copies, that is to say, in all respects.

The very valuable supplement, which is contained in no other edition than the present one, should not be passed unnotneed; it contains four thousand words, not given in any other decionary, was only completed by Dr. Webster in 1843, immediately before the sickness which terminated his valuable hife, and has been published and copy-righted, since his death, by his executors.

work is now therefore in a finished and com-The work is now therefore in a finished and complete state, it is not to be supposed that any thing more can or will be added to it; the present edition defining and illustrating twenty thousand more words than the edition which, when it first issued from the hands of Dr. Webster, was acknowledged by the English philologists to be the best dictionary in the world.

MISS HEANEY'S ACADEMY,

MISS HEANEY'S AUADISMY,

I street, opposite President's Square, Washington.

(Between the residences of Mrs. Gen. Macomb and the Hon. John Y. Mason, Secretary of the Navy.)

I ISS HEANEY, of Boston, Massachusetts, principal instructress, respectfully gives notice to parents and guardians of her resuming the education of Young Ladies in this city in the former family residence of Col. Bomford, according to her early purposes of educating boarding pupils as a family, with a convenient number of day scholars. Her own personal instruction and care being given to each of with a convenient number of day scholars. Her own personal instruction and care being given to each of her pupils individually in whatever pursuits of learning or accomplishments they may engage. Assistant instructreases will be resident in her family, and exclusively engaged to aid her responsibly as professors in this charge. One of the most skiful in Vocal and Instrumental Music will always be so engaged; other professors will attend to give lessons, as may be required, but only with her own attention to her pupils as principal. The many years occupancy of this house by Col. Bomford's family evinces healthiness of the situation well; and its spaciousness, pleasant garden, and scenery, makes it the most desirable dwelling for such students in the vicinity of the President's House and the Departments.

Miss Harney's Acadamy being so eligibly placed in the quiet neighborhood of many well-known families, greatly encourages the favor her task bespeaks of parents and guardians to sustain a permanent institution of the most faithful and liberal instruction. The regulations and order prescribed in it being simply such as are due to secure the entire welfare of daughters under maternal direction at home.

Morning Exercises of Instruction.—The use of English and French Text Books alternately, in her method formerly pursued in this city, and since by herself, in reading, elocution, grammar, geography, history, arithmetic, &c. Composition and Belles Lettres in both languages.

Mernon Exercises.—Drawing and Painting in personal instruction and care being given to each of in both languages.

Afternoon Exercises.—Drawing and Painting in crayon, water, and oil colors; Music, Needlework in its varieties of domestic use and ornament; Dancing, &c., tuition by ladies, and practised at recreations of the school and family. Young ladies of the Senior Class may have instruction for any acquirements exclusively desired of the usual course, and in the Italian or other languages.

For publishing in the City of Washington, a Des Newspaper, to be called "THE CONSTITUTION."

The undersigned, having purchased the materials of The Spectator, will issue, on or before the 10th inst. the first number of a new paper to be called "The Constitutions." It will be devoted to the steady advocacy of that system of measures which will preserve unimpaired the sacred instrument from which we borrow the name; and as constantly oppose whatever is not sanctioned by it. We shall unceasingly oppose a National Bank—a Protective Tariff—luternal Improvement by the General Government—a Distribution of the Proceeds of the sales of the Public Lands—Assumption of the State Debts—an abrogation of the Executive Veto, as unconstitutional and inexpedient.

We hope to make the paper worthy of the combense and support of the Democratic party. It shall be the faithful expositor of their principles, and the ever ready medium to convey their sentiments and wishes to the public. The Democratic cause, is the cause of truth and justice. It courts the light. It shuns no investigation. And we are determined to see whether a paper, conducted with a devotion to the sales of the public. cause of truth and justice. It courts the light. It shuns no investigation. And we are determined t see whether a paper, conducted with a devotion to the principles, rather than to the men, of our party—to further the great cause of human progress, rather than the mere advancement of particular individuals, will not commend itself to the confidence and favor of thepeople. direction, still retains its e-eminence as to numbers and usefulness. The number of students during the direction, still retains its e-eminence as to numbers and usefulness. The number of students during the past year has exceeded two hundred—of these a great er number than formerly (170) belong to the regular College classes. It has been the aim of the Trussees and Faculty to elevate the standard of education. For several years past the course of study has been extended, especially in Mathematics and physical science, so as to be fully equal to that of the best Colleges in the East. There is a full faculty, composed of able experienced teachers in the different departments. It is our determination not to lower the standard or abridge the course of study, although it is well known that our course has prevented to some extent the increase of numbers, as the tendency of the age is to hasten and abridge in every thing, and too many young men are impatient of delay and labor necessary to substantial acquirements.—We, however, entertain entire confidence that this College will still receive the patronage of the friends of thorough education.

Dr. Brown having on account of ill health, tendered his reignation last fall, the Trustees elected as his successor in January, Rev. Robert J. Breckenridge, D. D., whose distinguished talens and literary acquirements, are excessively known in our own country and in Europe. His acceptance of the appointment try and in Europe.

THE UNITED STATES MAGAZINE AND DEMOCRATIC REVIEW.

JOHN L. O'SULLIVAN, EDITOR. THE Sixteenth volume of the Democratic Review

THE Sixteenth volume of the Democratic Review commences with the present number. The publisher cannot omit the occasion it affords to congratulate its readers and friends, upon the great victory recently achieved by the cause of their common principles; a victory not less important in its consequences, than glorious in its triumph, after the unprecedented severity of the recent contest of parties.—Originally established at a period of the deepest depression of the Democratic cause, in the memorable year of 1837, this Review has ever taken an active, and it is believed, not ineffective part, in the long and year of 1837, this Review has ever taken an active, and, it is believed, not ineffective part, in the long and keenly contested battles of opinion, by which the country has been ever since more or less deeply agitated. Having freely shared the worst disasters, the gloomiest depressions, may it not fairly be allowed to ask and hope to share now the benefit of the triumph and prosperity, of the Democracy of the country? It has sustained itself through gousiderable portions of that period, only by large pecuniary sacrifices caused by the delinquencies of too many of boarding and day-scholars she may receive, and for whom every arrangement is made to ensure, by her own unremitted attention, thorough instruction and improvement in elementary and elevated learning, with the best advantages of residence.

Miss Heaney's Academy being so eligibly placed in the quiet neighborhood of many well-known families near the President's House and the Departments, in the family residence many years of Col. Bomford, spacious and convenient, with its large garden and pleasant scenery, is esteemed the most desirable in the vicinity for the charge Miss Heaney resumes in the vicinity for the charge Miss Heaney resumes in this city of the useful and liberal education of young ladies. an active and generous friendliness of support, on the part of its subscribers and the intelligent mem-bers of its party generally, for its support. Our opbers of its party generally, for its support. Our opponents have recently organized extensive arrangements for the establishment of a similar work on the other side of our great division of parties—"to counteract," as it is said, "the pernicious influence of the Democratic Review." Established under imposing auspices of eminent political and literary names in the ranks of our opponents, and doubtless to be sustained by the overflowing means possessed by that party, to sustain a work of that character, it thus holds out the prospect of an honorable rivalry, which the Democratic Review cheerfully accepts, but which the Democratic Party must liberally contribute to enable it to maintain, in a manner worthy of that party. able it to maintain, in a manner worthy of that party, and of its good, great and glorious principles. The way to serve it, and to aid in this purpose, is, at once to remit promptly the debts which are its just and well-earned due, and to take some degree of active interest to procure it additional advance paying sub-
